

The Hampshire Education Coordinator Network for Service Children presents an opportunity to celebrate and develop your school's support for young people from

FESTIVAL OF FRIENDS

Awards and Celebration Event at The University of Winchester, 17 April 2018

The Hampshire Education Coordinator Network for Service Children, in partnership with The University of Winchester, would like to invite pupils and staff in Hampshire schools to develop and deliver mini-projects that do one or more of the following:

- improve the integration of service with non-service pupils
- grow awareness of service life (and life for service children) with their teachers and classmates
- help service families to integrate more smoothly and effectively with their school
- promote effective practices for improving the integration of service and non-service pupils and families that can be shared with others

Winning projects will be presented with an award at an awards ceremony in April 2018 and will be awarded cash support to develop their projects further.

The following 'top tips' for schools to help them integrate more effectively came directly from service children at our events:

"Have the chance to explain to other children what it is like or where they're from"

"Combine to create a military day at school"

"Have assemblies based on military so we are understood"

"Have military personnel talking about their experience to the entire school"

"More talks about the army, navy etc. Not a lot of people know what it is or how it is"

Please contact your District Service Children Coordinator for further information, or alternatively contact:

Andy Heyes, School Improvement Manager - andy.heyes@hants.gov.uk

Kath Lawrence, Widening Participation Coordinator - katherine.lawrence@winchester.ac.uk

#MilitaryChildEd

@_UoW_WP

THE UNIVERSITY OF WINCHESTER

Hampshire
County Council